From the Pastor's Desk.....

Anyone listening to J. S. Bach's 'Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring' cannot help but be enraptured by the beauty of this music and its ability to lift the soul. The joy that Bach so exquisitely expresses in his music is a deeply religious sentiment. It is not a joy that can be manufactured, bought or procured. Rather, it is the joy that is experience through our encounter with the living God.

On this third Sunday of Advent the theme of joy threads its way through the liturgy. The entrance antiphon announces the theme: "Rejoice in the Lord always; again I say, rejoice. Indeed, the Lord is near." We light the rose candle, a symbol of joy. In the first reading from the prophet Zephaniah we have an image of a God who dances with delight for his people. The people are exhorted to shout for joy and to rejoice, for their God is in their midst: "Rejoice, exult with all your heart". God's presence among them lifts them up out of their misery. The theme continues in the responsorial psalm "Cry out with joy and gladness: for among you is the holy one of Israel".

We are left no doubt that joy is meant to be a characteristic of the Christian life. Joy does not cancel out the sufferings that afflict our lives and our world. But the gift of grace that we experience as joy, lifts us up, and empowers us to be God's liberating presence in our world.

In his apostolic exhortation, The Joy of the Gospel, Pope Francis concludes with a prayer to Mary part of which reads: "Filled with Christ's presence, you brought joy to John the Baptist, making him exult in the womb of his mother. Brimming over with joy, you sang of the great things done by God. Standing at the foot of the cross with unyielding faith, you received the joyful comfort of the resurrection, and joined the disciples in awaiting the Spirit so that the evangelizing Church might be born."

*Peace & blessings,
Gerard*

Joy

The principal theme of Gaudete Sunday is joy. According to Paul, joy is one of the fruits of the Spirit (cf. Gal 5:22). Such joy is a religious sentiment, not emotional happiness. Along with gratitude, it is the heart’s response to God’s goodness. Advent joy is like the delight that fills a woman who has just given birth, even if it occurred in the throes of the pangs of birth.

We tend to think of joy this way: There is ordinary time in our lives, when duty, work, emotional and financial burdens, tiredness, worries, and pressure of all kinds keep us from enjoying life and from being as cheery and pleasant as we would like. We think of ordinary times in our lives as keeping us from joy – the grind, the routine, the rat-race, the work-week – and so we look forward to special times, weekends, nights out, vacation times, social times, celebrations, and parties where we can break the routine, break out, enjoy ourselves, and experience joy.

Joy is always the by-product of something else. As the various versions of The Prayer of St. Francis put it, we can never attain joy, consolation, peace, forgiveness, love, and understanding by actively pursuing them. We attain them by giving them out. That’s the great paradox at the centre of all spirituality and one of the great foundational truths within the universe itself: The air that we breathe out is the air we will eventually breathe back in. Joy will come to us if we set about actively trying to create it for others.

You can’t find joy, it has to find you. That’s its real quality. You can go to a party and say, “Tonight I’m going to have a good time, if it kills me!” It might! Indeed parties and letting off steam have their place. You might even find good cheer at a party or find a good distraction and these can be needed therapy and a good respite from hard work. But neither is joy.

Advent joy springs from the realisation that the presence of God in our midst can so transform our lives that the promises of peace and security will be fulfilled. Advent joy is the way we live in the tension between already and not yet.

JUBILEE OF MERCY

From Pope Francis....

With the Extraordinary Jubilee of Mercy I would like to focus on several points which I believe require attention to enable the celebration of the Holy Year to be for all believers a true moment of encounter with the mercy of God. It is indeed my wish that the Jubilee be a living experience of the closeness of the Father, whose tenderness is almost tangible, so that the faith of every believer may be strengthened and thus testimony to it be ever more effective. I have asked the Church in this Jubilee Year to rediscover the richness encompassed by the spiritual and corporal works of mercy. The experience of mercy, indeed, becomes visible in the witness of concrete signs as Jesus himself taught us. Each time that one of the faithful personally performs one or more of these actions, he or she shall surely obtain the Jubilee Indulgence. Hence the commitment to live by mercy so as to obtain the grace of complete and exhaustive forgiveness by the power of the love of the Father who excludes no one. The Jubilee Indulgence is thus full, the fruit of the very event which is to be celebrated and experienced with faith, hope and charity.

5 more gift card tags for children have been added to the tree

Parishioners are again invited to make a contribution to the Christmas hampers by returning the items in the next week or so.

The tree in the foyer is a Chrismon tree.

Chrismons are Christmas decorations with Christian symbols on them. The word Chrismon is a combination of Christ and monogram (meaning symbol).

Chrismons are traditionally coloured white and gold. White symbolises that Jesus was pure and perfect. Gold symbolises His majesty and glory.

GOSPEL IN A NUTSHELL Lk 3:10-18

John makes clear to his audience the difference between himself and the Messiah who is still to come. His ritual of baptism will pale in comparison with the baptism with the Holy Spirit that the Christ will offer. Compared to a symbolic action of baptism, Jesus will offer the people a tangible experience of life in the Holy Spirit. He will give them not only a glimpse of the reign of God, but an invitation to enter fully into it. The baptism of the Holy Spirit is a lived experience, not just a ritual action.

John's words to the crowd, the tax collectors and the soldiers are about adopting a spirit of generosity and a generosity of spirit. A generosity of spirit can be expressed simply in the attitude with which we approach other people: a positive, hope-filled and generous attitude will often turn around a potentially negative situation. As we approach the Christmas season, there is a need for practical actions of generosity as well. Those in need can approach Christmas with dread rather than joyful expectation. It can be the hardest time of year for struggling families. Acts of generosity can make all the difference.
