Today's Gospel Matt. 5: 27-32

Letter across the Generations

I am an alumna member of my old boarding school, that I attended in Melbourne and I am on their mailing list. A few weeks ago I received a delightful letter.

The beautifully written letter was from a little 11-year-old girl in Grade 6, wishing me well and asking how I was getting on in the lockdown, and telling me how she was coping. I was asked to reply, so I did, sharing with her, that when I was her age, I was a kid from the bush in my second year at boarding-school. Her school is very different from what it was in my day!

I think Grade 6 at my old school was asked to write to the older alumnae to cheer them up during the lockdown.

What a lovely idea!

That school experience so long ago, with daily Mass and caring teachers, had cemented my faith in God. Her letter reminded me how much God has blessed me in my life, including being in St. Johns Kippax community today.

Friendships that are real, friendships that engage the soul, are glimpses into the eternal love of God. When we really love someone else with a love that is total and a love that is true, then we know how God love us. It is a breathtakingly unbearable discovery, isn't it?

Praying at the Edge, Excited and Apprehensive

By Noel Davis, p47

Dear God, transform me. It's time.

Help me to be attentive,
bold free to be open to Your Spirit in me
the Spirit of Life and Respect for all the Spirit of Love and Freedom
Justice and Integrity
Magnanimity and Resolve
Joyfulness and Generosity
Abundance and Gratitude
Forgiving and Reconciling
Grandeur and Life Renewing.

I pray earnestly Dear God
to live that spirit of me
the spirit of my most expansive and life embracing self.

Amen. Amen.

Ladies, don't forget the rummage sale. It's a chance to get rid of those things not worth keeping around the house. Bring your husbands.
